Online Etiquette

I fully expect each student to demonstrate a degree of online etiquette that reflects being a respectful adult in our society. Remember that discussion boards are a free space, where students should feel comfortable sharing ideas and asking questions without judgment. Students and faculty have personal beliefs, but should be cognizant of others' beliefs as well. Please respectfully disagree and do not resort to any personal criticisms.

Also, please use proper written communication in all correspondence. Email communication is not a text message and should use proper greetings, closings, and titles when addressing each other and faculty. This type of etiquette is beneficial when learning how to respectfully communicate with your peers, colleagues and superiors in the other settings.

Time Management

This course is both reading and writing intensive. Although it is an online course, students should expect to spend 8-10 hours per week reading, writing, and researching assignments. Student who do not have a disciplined study regiment or who cannot manage time efficiently will have a difficult time successfully completing this course.

Technological Requirements

This course requires students to have regular access to the internet. The course site and email should be checked multiple times per week, if not every day. If wishing to print reading assignments, access to a printer is necessary as is a word processing program that allows users to create complex formatting such as footnotes and italic style for documents.

Assignments

All assignments are due by 11:59 pm Sunday at the end of the week that they are assigned.

Reading Responses

Three reading responses must be submitted during the semester on assigned monographs or articles. Students can choose which weeks they want to submit responses and which of the three possible topics (Research Problem, Thesis, Methodology) they wish to cover in the response. All three must be covered by the end of the semester. Book reviews and reading responses cannot be submitted during the same week. If more than one reading is assigned for that week, responses should compare and contrast the readings. If one chooses to submit a reading response, it must be turned in by the end of week, 11:59 pm Sunday that the readings are assigned for class. Responses should between 300 and 600 words, double spaced, use 12 pt. font size and a standard font style. They should use quotations and footnotes with Chicago Manual of Style citation format. Late entries will be accepted with a 10 pt. deduction per day it is overdue. A fuller explanation of this assignment can be found on Blackboard.

Book Review

Two book reviews must be submitted during the semester for the two monographs assigned. Book reviews must be turned in by the end of week, 11:59 pm Sunday that the book is assigned for class. Book reviews and reading responses cannot be submitted during the same week. Book reviews should be 900-1200 words in length, double spaced, use 12 pt. font size and a standard font style such as Times New Roman, Arial, Calibri, etc. Reviews should use quotations and footnotes with Chicago Manual of Style citation format. A book review should provide all of the elements of a reading response with additional analysis. It should provide a brief overview of the research problem, the author's main arguments, a critical critique of the author's use of sources, its merits as well as shortcomings, its organization and the validity of the author's argument. Late entries will be accepted with a 10 pt. deduction per day it is overdue. A fuller explanation of this assignment can be found on Blackboard.

Short Papers

There will be three short paper assignments given during the semester on a variety of Hip Hop topics. Each assignment is worth 100 pts and is worth 5% of the total grade. A fuller explanation of these assignments can be found on Blackboard.

Research Paper

Students will be required to submit a research paper. All topics must have prior approval by the instructor. Possible topics may include the experience of black soldiers in a particular state or company, deserters, the navy, black women nurses, contraband, disease, marriages, apprenticeship, convict lease, education, religion, labor contracts, politicians, widows, or black female leaders. Research papers should make an original contribution to the body of literature on a subject. They must utilize both primary and secondary sources. Research papers should be 8-10 pages in length, double spaced, use 12 pt. font size and a standard font style. Late entries will be accepted with a 10 pt. deduction per day it is overdue.

Topic and Bibliography

Choose sources and topic carefully. The topic must not be too general, but should be focused enough to allow for meaningful analysis. Identify a research problem that you want to investigate as well as questions that you seek to answer. A written paragraph between 150 and 300 words, about 1 page, should be double spaced, use 12 pt. font size and a standard font style. Students must examine at least 8 different sources on a historical topic. They must analyze both secondary (at least 5) and primary sources (at least 3). In this assignment students must examine at least two articles in addition to historical monographs as secondary sources. Do not use encyclopedia articles or summaries from websites. All articles must come from peer reviewed academic journals or books published by academic presses. The use of the sources must demonstrate an effort to find diverse point of views and arguments. Citation format must conform to Chicago Manual of Style.

Annotated Bibliography

Annotated bibliographies provide an overview of each of the major sources, books or articles that you are using for your project. For this assignment, provide a sentence or two summarizing your research topic. Then list your eight sources (at least three primary and five secondary) and address the following questions for each. Each annotation may not require that you directly answer each question but it must be very clear that you have considered these issues carefully. Each annotation should be at least 100 words. Back up your evaluation with specific reference. Use Chicago Manual of Style format for bibliographies.

- What is the central argument of the text in question? Try to summarize that argument in a sentence or two.
- What do you consider problematic, and point out other authors whose works might better explain or clarify that problem.
- Did you notice any connections between this text and other texts on your list?

- Were there related ideas? Did one text attempt to comment on or correct another?
- How will use this source in your paper?

Outline and Thesis

Briefly restate your topic. Develop a working outline for your paper that reflects your organizational strategy at this point in your process. The thesis statement states the main argument of the paper. It should briefly detail how the argument will be proven and what specific points will be made. Please put your thesis statement in bold type in the introduction so that it is easy to discern. Divide the outline into introduction, main body (with arguments clearly separated), and conclusion sections, to help you organize your thoughts. Your outline should include several quotes and/or citations that you plan to use to support your argument. It is not necessary to include all the quotes that you intend to use; 7 or 8 should suffice. Simple in text parenthetical citations (Author, page number) is sufficient. It should be at least 300 words.

Research Paper:

Research papers should present an argument that is supported by ample evidence. It should also include a short review of the literature that has already been written on the subject. Papers must be 8-10 pages in length, double spaced, use 12pt. font size and a standard font style such as Times New Roman, Arial, Calibri, etc. Papers should use footnotes with Chicago Manual of Style citation format. Sources should also be listed in a bibliography.

Online Discussion Participation:

Each week there will be a class discussion on Blackboard. In total there will be 14 graded discussions. Students are expected to present meaningful comments on the discussion board. Comments should use quotations from the readings and/or directly reference the readings. This course is reading and writing intensive. While you may not be able to read every word of an assigned monograph or series of articles, you are expected to spend time with each reading in order to familiarize yourself with the main arguments and participate meaningfully in discussion. Bad language or inappropriate content will not be tolerated. It will be expected that your comments reflect your work. Students should regularly quote from the book or readings for that week. This does not need to be a footnote reference – just use quotation marks around the author's words followed by the author's name and page number of the source in parentheses. It will be expected that assigned texts will be read and every effort made to make statements that reflect one's understanding of the topic. However, do not be afraid to ask questions on the discussion board. Questions can be for clarification, but should also stimulate further discussion. Students should attempt to answer the questions of other students. The instructor will be involved in most discussion boards to give direction and input. Grading of discussion participation will be done by assessing a student's presence including at least two visits to the blackboard site per week separated by at least 24 hours and three total comments (25%), the depth/length of comments including quotations (25%), the number of questions answered (25%), and how well questions, links, references, and direct responses to other students or comments stimulate further discussion (25%). Discussion boards will be open from 12:01 am Monday to 11:59 pm the following Sunday each week. Questions that you may ask (and you are encouraged to do so!) are not considered to be "comments" unless preceded by discussion. The more you substantively interact, the better your grade. Examples of comments are below:

Poor comment – I agree with J. Doe.

Fair comment – I agree with J. Doe because American slaves did practice Christianity.

Good comment – Although J. Doe is correct that many slaves were Christian, J. Doe is incorrect in assuming that all American slaves accepted the religion.

Great comment - Although J. Doe is correct that many slaves were Christian, J. Doe is incorrect in assuming that all American slaves accepted the religion. According to our article, "Citation." (Author, page number). Therefore, Christianity was not always accepted by slaves. Wouldn't you agree, J. Doe?

If at any time during this course you are excluded or feel a sense of alienation from the course content, please feel free to contact me privately without fear of reprisal.

Land Acknowledgement

The history of our community and land gives us the opportunity to recognize, respect, and appreciate our place within that history. Western Kentucky University (WKU) honors and acknowledges the Indigenous peoples' land on which this University was built. All land in the state of Kentucky was once Indigenous territory, which is why it is our duty to acknowledge that WKU exists on Native land. This particular region of Kentucky was home to both the Shawnee (Shawandasse Tula) and Cherokee East (CWJQJJA Tsalaguwetiyi) tribes.

We also honor and acknowledge the former residents of Jonesville. According to the Jonesville History Project, "Jonesville was a predominantly African American community in Bowling Green, Kentucky, that was demolished in the 1960s to make way for the expansion of the WKU campus. This incident echoed a pattern across the country where the power of eminent domain was utilized to seize property from minority communities for large public works projects under the guise of urban revitalization."
